

Note on visiting card, 10 May 1907? Letters II, 223.

From: James Joyce in Trieste

To: Stanislaus Joyce in Trieste

Re: Copies of Joyce's published poetry collection, Chamber Music. "You need not send copies either to Price, Cosgrave, Aunt J. or Pappie as I have done so."

Postcard, 16 July 1909. Scholes No. 1085, James Joyce Cornell Collection (4609)

From: Blackwood-Price in Trieste

To: Joyce in Trieste

Re: family matters. Sent to Joyce a week prior to his departure for Dublin with Giorgio.

Letter, 11 June 1910. Letters I, 69-70.

From: James Joyce in Trieste

To: G. Molyneux Palmer in Sandycove, Co. Dublin

Joyce provides advice from Blackwood-Price about travel to Co. Donegal. "However, I have inquired from an Irish friend of mine here, a Mr Price, who comes from the Ards of Down."

Postcard, 13 June 1910. Letters II, 285-86.

From: James Joyce in Trieste

To: Stanislaus Joyce in Trieste

Notifies Stanislaus of the Volta Cinema sale. Adds that "Price is ill in bed and asks will we go to see him tomorrow. I sent word to them to come here but Mrs Price came to say that their journey has to be put off."

In early August 1911, Blackwood-Price retired from Eastern Telegraph and relocated to Mitterdorf, Province of Styria, Austria.

Letter, 25 August 1911. Scholes No. 1086, James Joyce Cornell Collection (4609)

From: Blackwood-Price in Mitterdorf

To: Joyce in Trieste

One page, re: Dubliners. Found nothing objectionable that would prevent publication in the UK; however, doubts whether the book "will do you any good." Joyce had asked Blackwood-Price to re-read part of the manuscript and determine whether it was disrespectful of the Royal Family.

July 15, 1912, Joyce, with his son in tow, arrives in Dublin and meets his wife and daughter who had arrived a week earlier.

Letter, 7 August 1912. Letters II, 298-301

From: James Joyce in Galway

To: Stanislaus Joyce in Trieste

Re, inter alia: Daily letters from Blackwood-Price harping on foot-and-mouth disease; contacting Field, and getting the "Styrian" cure reported in the Irish press.

Postcard, 10 August 1912. Letters II, 301

From: James Joyce in Galway

To: Stanislaus Joyce in Trieste

Notes that he “wrote to Field for Price...”

Postcard, 30 August 1912. Letters II, 315

From: James Joyce in Dublin

To: Stanislaus Joyce in Trieste

Re, inter alia: Met with Arthur Griffith who asked for Price’s address.

The Joyces are back in Trieste on September 15.

Postcard, 5 October 1912. Scholes No. 1087, James Joyce Cornell Collection (4609)

From: Blackwood-Price in Mitterdorf

To: Joyce in Trieste

Re: Foot-and-mouth disease and having written to Athur Griffith.

Letter, 2 December 1912. Scholes No. 1088, James Joyce Cornell Collection (4609)

From: Blackwood-Price in Mitterdorf

To: Joyce in Trieste

Four pages on several matters including impending war in Europe, not having a servant in Mitterdorf, foot-and-mouth disease and the Irish Dept. of Agriculture, not paid for the Sinn Fein article.

Letter, 28 Feb 1913. Scholes No. 1089, James Joyce Cornell Collection (4609)

From: Blackwood-Price in Venice

To: Joyce in Trieste

Blackwood-Price and his wife on holiday from boring Mitterdorf. Seven pages on several matters including foot-and-mouth disease.

Citations

Letters I Gilbert, Stuart, ed. Letters of James Joyce, Vol I. New York: Viking, 1966.

Letters II Ellmann, Richard, ed. Letters of James Joyce, Vol II. New York: Viking, 1966.